

A motion by Wisconsin to allow states to exclude certain products from the definition of “candy” contained in Part II of Appendix C of the SSUTA the Library of Definitions

A member state may exclude from its definition of “candy” a preparation that only contains a combination of dried or partially dried fruit, sugar, and a sweetener or combination of sweeteners. The exclusion does not apply to a preparation that includes chocolate, nuts, or other ingredients or flavorings. For purposes of this exclusion, nuts are not considered fruit.
